

Should you let your kids or pets play in this?

BAD IDEA!

Algae are common in lakes and rivers. But at high concentrations a type called "blue-green" algae can make people and animals sick.

What to look for:

- ▼ Does the water look "pea soupy"?
- ▼ Does it smell swampy?

Blue-green algae can:

- ▼ irritate skin, eyes and nasal passages and make you sick.
- ▼ poison your pets or livestock – animals have died from it.

If you or your pets have come in contact with blue-green algae, wash thoroughly.

Think you or animals are sick from it? Call a doctor or veterinarian immediately.

When in doubt, best keep out!

For more information, please contact Southwest District Health at (208) 455-5400

